Information about the specific TRS models and when they will be available

The factory is building 280cc and 250cc models in this month of June. Our first 280cc model arrived in the past shipment and is out for delivery to our dealer at this time. We expect another shipment in two or three weeks. These are expected to be 280cc and 250cc models.

To be absolutely fair to everyone, we continue our policy of delivering machines in the same sequence as the orders were placed by our USA dealers, for delivery to those customers who are next in line.

With our commitment to good service, we will continue to ship these first allocations of pre-sold bikes from Spain to the USA by air-freight. (Even though air-freight is very expensive, we have elected to do this to save time as ocean freight typically takes more than one month)

Once we begin to catch-up on the pre-sold machines, our plan is for more to arrive via ocean freight. Common sense and many years of experience tells us that there may be some time before the new TRS machines are readily available ‘on-demand’ and ‘in-stock’ in dealerships here and abroad.

For your convenience, almost all of our USA dealers do have “demo-units” on-hand now for their customers to test-ride, and we are doing our best to have demonstrator units at the major events nationwide. We much appreciate your kind understanding as the new factory steadily increases production capacity and delivery of motorcycles to those distributors, dealers, and buyers around the World who are patiently waiting.

As always, we will continue to update our TRS website and Facebook pages in real-time.
